THE TARIFF.

The Toronto Globe, on the subject of protection, to the makers of agricultural machinery, quotes from the Winnipeg Telegram a passage descriptive of how the tariff has brought American capital into Canada for the purpose of making machinery of this kind. The passage from the Telegram reads as follows:

"Our tariff has forced the United States manufacturers to come over to Canada to manufacture their goods for the Canadian market. A combination of the Minneapolis Thresher company and the Advance Thresher company has bought the Abell works in Toronto and is enlarging it, and the factory begun by the Deering Company at Hamilton is to be taken over by the new combination just announced. Thus we will have in Canada the strongest United States firms doing their manufacturing here and competing for the trade. If we had no more than this we would be in as good a position as the users of agricultural implements are in the United States. But we have much more. Our tariff has caused a great many American firms to become established. These Canadian firms will offer the strongest competition to the new firms from the United States, and there will thus be keener competition in Canada than there will be in the United States. And, best of all, we have many factories now running in Canada, giving employment to thousands of men who must not be lost to Canada, and helping to build up the general wealth and prosperity of the country. These have always been the objects of Conservative policy, and in this instance the practical wisdom and the patriotic value of that policy is proving itself to a demonstration.

This paragraph is quoted by the Globe without comment upon its accuracy, in order to confound the Eastern Conservatives, who claim that industry is not sufficiently protected, with the opinion of Western Conservatives, who think the tariff is right, so far as agricultural machinery is concerned. No doubt the paragraph is quite suitable for that purpose, taken by itself; but unfortunately for the Globe, the Hamilton Spectator sheds a new light upon the subject by re-marking:

Speaking of the International Harvester Company, the Hamilton Times finds a great deal of happiness in its opinion that 20 per cent. duty was enough to force that concern to manufacture in Canada. But it wasn't enough to keep out American-made machinery to the value of $3,000,000 a year. Nor did it force the Americans to come to Hamilton. For they know—as Mr.
Tarte publicly stated the other day—that the government intended to raise the tariff on harvesting machinery, and that is why they are here.

So that it is Mr. Tarte and his policy of "adequate protection to Canadian industry" which has brought this American capital in to manufacture here instead of shipping in the products of American factories. For the purpose for which it was quoted, the Globe's reference is not satisfactory in view of all the facts of the case. But in view of certain other industries and certain other statements in the Globe, it is most satisfactory. On the very same page in the same issue of the Globe the following paragraph occurs:

"The Canadian woolen men are claiming that they can make woollen goods as good as any, and that the prejudice in favor of imported goods is not well founded. We believe there is a great deal of truth in what they say, and we should like to see more Canadian woolens worn. But the fact is that the woollen manufacturer weakens his own case by asking for higher protection.

Protection is a matter of competing like it or not. The Canadian woolen manufacturer should take his stand on his product, and those who wish to encourage native products should ask for them.

Here we recognize the true Globe. In the last sentence of the paragraph we recognize the principle of the free trade doctrine, which the Globe has been presiding over since its birth. But what sort of intellectual stuff it imagines its readers to be made of when it can put such politic cant in its columns cheek by jowl with a mathematical demonstration of the effects of protection, and a promise of increased protection, in the case of agricultural machinery? The excellence of Canadian agricultural machinery did not prevent $3,000,000 worth from being imported. But the logic of the tariff, and of a promised increase in it, made the importers whip their factories across the line in short order.
The numerous testimonials of the Globe towards the woolen industry at the very moment it recognizes the force which has localized the manufacture of agricultural machinery in Canada, finely illustrates what we referred to the other day as the predicament of the Liberal party over tariff issues.

FREIGHT OR PASSENGERS.

A controversy has broken out in the East whether the Canadian Fast Line should be specially directed towards the conveyance of freight or passengers. A fast passenger service giving equal or superior facilities for reaching all parts of the North American continent to those afforded by New York would, it is claimed, form an excellent advertisement for Canada, and carry out the idea of the Imperial line. It is argued that the direct Imperial benefit to be derived from a fast service is to provide rapid communication between different parts of the Empire, and in particular, an unassailable and adequate military route to the Orient. This is the pictorial side of the question, but it is not the only side by any means, and it is to be hoped that Canada will not overlook the solidly nutritive qualities which gingerbread ought to possess in rapid contemplation of the gift that is in the outside. During the first week of the present month the ocean rate on butter to Liverpool was 27s. 6d., while from New York and Boston to the same port it was 20s., a discrimination of 7s. 6d. against Montreal and the St. Lawrence route. The rate for the corresponding week of last year to Liverpool was 25s. from Montreal and only 11s. 3d. from New York and Boston, a difference of over 13s. against Montreal. During the first week in May the rate from Montreal was 25s., as compared with 15s. from New York and Boston, a difference of 10s. For the corresponding week a year ago the rate was 25s. from Montreal, and 11s. 3d. from New York and Boston. These are not isolated cases, but show the general trend of comparative rates during the past two years. In the rate on cheese there was an adverse difference against the port of Montreal during the season of 1901 ranging from 7s. to 13s., and a similar discrimination still continues during the present season. The difference in the freight charge on eggs varies from 2s. to 5s.
There is also adverse discrimination in the rate on flour and other produce. The rates on grain show that the St. Lawrence route suffers to the extent of 5s.
6d. per quarter, as compared with Boston and New York. These differences represent the difference between an established trade route and one that is not established. And it is for the purpose of establishing the Canadian route and of putting it on an equality with the New York route that a subsidy is being paid to a steamship line. The main object of the line is to ensure that Canadian trade shall go through a Canadian port and not be diverted to the Atlantic ports of the United States. Keep the trade in the Empire and the people will be kept in the Empire and its parts bound more closely together. But why a freight and passenger service should be to any extent exclusive of one another we altogether fail to understand.
Nor do we see why Canada should rest content with anything less than the best of both.

have taken a second thought and concluded that it would be a pity to go seeing the capital of a great province and the most important outpost of the Empire, which means so much to them and to their pupils. The British Empire holds the key of the Mediterranean in arrive in Victoria tonight.

Some time ago the Colonist and the Times both published some extracts from the Victoria newspaper files of forty years ago. They have been accepted by the English press as representing conditions in Victoria today, if the following extract from an English paper counts for anything:
Hotel-keepers will be amused at the reference to "clean sheets" embodied in the appended advertisement from the Victoria Times, British Columbia. The enterprising hotel men fail to give the tariff for beds with sheets that are not clean, and the public that these sheets undesirables are made up. "Hilo, for Fraser River, Union Hotel, by Cusheon & Wolf, Government Street, near Yates, Victoria, V. I. We beg to inform our friends and the public that we have installed up fifty beds, and in order to meet the dull times we have reduced the price of beds with clean sheets to 50 cents per night."
We have arrived at the conclusion that there is nothing in the shape of information about this country which the British journalist is incapable of distorting.

problem of speed versus fuel?

From the London, Eng., Caterer.
Whilst I write, I have had a letter from Yanovitch, B. C., from a lucky friend who is en route for Japan, and his description of his trip from Montreal makes one's mouth water. "The train," he writes, referring to the Canadian Pacific railway, was a perfect marvel of luxury, and one as comfortable as a feather bed. The ride across quite baffles description; it must be seen to be realized. Vancouver seems but a few minutes' ride away, and paradise, but, alas, it seems beyond the means of ordinary mortals to visit it, for, as my friend writes, "the tickets are extremely expensive here, in fact, they are at famine prices, I paid 3s. to have my hair cut, and a bottle of hair oil cost 1s. 6d. If you gave him anything under 1s. 6d. an ideal place, I should say, for the long-haired and bearded monks of the East." By the way, that was one of the points on which I disagreed from the writer in the Echo de Paris. He blamed the French hotels "because of the variety of their beauties" like the Swiss do so effectively.

KOREA'S CURIOUS CURRENCY.
Home-Made Counterfeits—"First-Class, Medium and Passable."

An interesting report has just been issued by the Foreign office on the trade of Korea, for the year 1901, by Mr. H.
Goffe, acting British consul at Seoul.
The report is a valuable one, and discusses the currency of the country, the difficulty with which foreign trade has to contend is the disastrous condition of the currency throughout the Empire.
The Korean government, in defiance of the first principles of sound finance, is flooding the country with a nickel coinage, whose intrinsic value is only one-eighth of its face value, without any gold or silver reserve, and with which to redeem it. As a natural consequence, these coins, which under proper conditions should be merely tokens, are at a continually increasing rate of discount against Japanese gold yen, the recognized basis for calculation of prices where foreign articles are required.

Hitherto the circulation of nickel pieces has been confined to the capital and the neighborhood of two or three of the treaty ports, the old cash being current elsewhere in the country; but recently, with a view to making their use general, the Empire have been ordered to accept payment of the land tax in this currency only. The face value of these coins is five sen, and they now stand at a discount of 40 per cent. of the nation are better paid now than they formerly were; consequently the purchasing power of their earnings, as far as foreign goods is concerned, is little more than half what it was a few years ago. And unfortunately, there does not seem any prospect of these conditions being improved in the near future. The government, caring only for the profits of the mint, are making out of this transaction, and ignoring the permanent harm they are doing to the country, are bent upon continuing their present reckless course, and 40,000,000 more of these coins are being issued for with an American firm, are now almost due for delivery. The issue of these will bring the total face value of this coinage in circulation to 14,000,000 sen, or more than £1,400,000.

But even this is not the worst feature. The number of counterfeit nickels is rapidly increasing; permits to coin are freely issued by the government to private individuals, and the result is imported through the customs, and spurious coins in large quantities are brought by almost every steamer from Japan and smuggled into the country. The commissioners of Customs at Chemulpo, in their annual report, writes as follows:
"The $50,000 worth of nickel, against $42,000 in 1900, have been seized, being mostly in the hands of manufacturers of counterfeit nickel coins." The commissioners of Customs at Chemulpo, in their annual report, writes as follows:
(1) Government nickels; (2) first-class counterfeits; (3) medium counterfeits; (4) the most common and lowest quality counterfeits. The value of the counterfeit nickels is estimated at 100,000,000 sen, or more than £10,000,000.

The currency question is of vital importance to foreign merchants, and is engaging the earnest attention of the foreign representatives in Japan. The yen, the supply of which seemed to be exhausted in 1900, have again appeared in large quantities, most of them having come from the interior, where they were hoarded by the natives. They are now at a discount of 13 per cent. as against gold yen. The largest of the copper cash continue to be exported to Japan, where they are melted down for the value of the copper they contain. No progress has been made by the Korean government with their projected silver silver coinage, although silver to the value of some £25,000 has been imported by the Imperial mint for this purpose.

CANADIAN MADE WOOLENS GOOD

But a Foolish and Unfair Prejudice Injures the Home Article.

From Toronto Star.

A member of a firm which is one of the largest wholesale dealers in woolen goods in Canada talked today to The Star about Canadians using manufactured goods. Here is what he said:
"The woolen trade is a peculiar one, I noticed The Star had some interviews yesterday with the furniture men, but the woolen business is in altogether different shape. For instance, you put a set of furniture in a Yonge street window and mark it $19.50 and put the same set of furniture in a King street window marked $29. These goods are guaranteed to pay the latter price, but you could mark a suit of clothes marked $25 in a Yonge street window and a suit of equal quality in a King street window marked $50 and lots of men would pay the $50. That shows the kind of judgment the Canadian manufacturer of woolens has to enter to. Sentiment of prejudice rule men's minds to a great extent in buying clothes."

"Now, I want to make this clear at once. I want you to understand that Canadian-made woolens are the equal of foreign-made woolens. I guarantee that the Canadians at the Coronation in London who wore Canadian clothes were just as well dressed, and better dressed, than were the Englishmen who wore English goods. And I want you to understand that, there are Englishmen in London better dressed in Canadian goods than are Canadians in Toronto in English goods."

"And yet everyone knows to what an extent British and French and German woolens are dealt in in Canada. Perhaps the jobbers are to blame as much as anybody. At least, they are the men we have to deal with, but they are governed, of course, by the public.
"There is an instance of what the Canadian manufacturer is up against. A short time ago I sold some Canadian woolen goods to a house in Guelph.
I didn't say they were imported goods, but I didn't say they were Canadian. I thought it was no misrepresentation. The householder, however, was not satisfied, and he thought they were imported goods were made in the adjoining town of Hespeler, and one day the Hespeler manufacturer happened into the Guelph store."

"Oh!" said he, "I'm glad to see you are handling some Canadian goods now."
"Those aren't Canadian goods," said the storekeeper. "Those are Scotch woolens."
"Well, anyway, I made them in Hespeler," was the reply.
"Now, would you believe it, the next afternoon we got that consignment back and the owner said the goods—wholly unjustified into the bargain."

"I have seen a line of Canadian goods go slowly. I have seen it labelled British and the price advanced 25 per cent. and the goods were not sold. On the road.
Now, what do you think of that?
"One time I sold a line of German goods to a man who by some mistake thought they were Canadian. They didn't go very well, and after a time he began asking me to return them.
I said, 'Well, they are German goods, but I will be glad to return them if you will.' He said, 'I will be glad to return them if you will be glad to return them.' I told you that the Oxford Manufacturing Company of Oxford, N.B., the Oxford Manufacturing Company of Sherbrooke, the Oxford Manufacturing Company, the Auburn Company of Peterboro, and such Canadian mills returning out to-day intrinsically better valued than the foreign manufacturers in the same lines of goods. Canadian goods are being sold on their merits in England and the United States."

The wholesaler took The Star representative to the office and showed him the order book containing orders from English firms—the most respected—for various lines of Canadian manufactured goods.
"What would you think of a temperance lecturer" resumed the representative, "who punctuated his remarks with sips of whiskey, saying he did not know whether it was whiskey or cold tea he was drinking? We all laugh at the sincerity of the temperance advocate.
And yet a manufacturer of Canadian woolens got up in the House of Commons last session to advocate an increase of protection on woolens, and the only he was wearing was a Scotch tweed.
Now, what's the difference?"

"The strongest argument in favor of protection—and I may tell you I am not a protectionist—is that it would save the protectionists from themselves—keep them from buying foreign goods. Canadian goods are good enough for Canadians, and if the whole Canadian population decided to wear Canadian-made clothes there would be no need for protection, and no one would be any worse off. In fact, a great many of them would be better off. Why? Because Canadians are to-day actually buying imported goods that are made in Canada to the Canadian-made goods at the same price."

"The Canadian women have saved the Canadian manufacturing business in woolens. I can give the ladies too much taffy on this point. Perhaps a man is a protectionist and talks loudly and at the same time goes and buys an imported suit, while his wife buys a Canadian dress. It is a fact, and it says nothing. And it is a fact that Canadian goods have almost supplanted imported women's dress goods in the last few years. The women's dress goods business stayed the manufacturers over a critical period, too, about eighteen months ago."

The men are following suit. Our business has trebled in the last two years, and I can tell you that the increase has been largely due to our Canadian lines, the increase in these being quite out of proportion to the increase in the value of some of the most important Canadian goods they have. I have praised them as they deserve people wouldn't believe us. Dyeing, too, is as well done here as in Europe."

DESPAIRED OF BEING CURED.

Mrs. W. E. Jeffries, 41 Hicks Ave., Kingston, Ont., writes: "I suffered agony with itching skin. A fact, I don't believe that any person who has not had piles can remember what I endured. The first application of Dr. Chase's Ointment brought relief, and it has since entirely cured me. I hope that this testimonial will be the means of bringing comfort to other sufferers by making known the great power of this ointment."

"WHEAT HO!"

A cgar in his mouth, and a glass in his eye, A swagging young gent was hurrying by On Government street.

He glanced in the window of seventy-nine,
To see that his tie was not in a line With his ear.

But what he saw glances sideways made him forget, Everything else, but what his eyes met,
In that window.

Things that he saw there made his eyes shine, Which look that said plainly, "By Jove, How fine
Are C. and C.'s goods!"

Passersby wondered what was up with the men, Whose coat tails they saw disappear as he ran,
Into the shop.

Down to seventy-nine now do take a walk,
And you'll never regret having taken that stalk.

"Tis to smokers and bachelors I give this For C. and C.'s goods are the lowest in price."

MRS. F. V. ROBERTSON, 25 Five Sisters' Block.

Will Arrive Tonight.—Mayor Haywood has been advised that the British schoolmusters, who have been waiting in Canada, will arrive here this evening.

Grass Fires.—The fire department has been given several runs lately on account of the troublesome grass fires. On Wednesday they were called out twice and yesterday another alarm took them over James Bay.

Choir Rehearsals.—The First Presbyterian church choir begins rehearsing again after a holiday of six weeks, between the usual work of the choir for Sunday services, a good season's work is ahead of this organization in special concerts, etc.

Better Service.—The council of the Board of Trade will meet this morning at 11 o'clock for the purpose of receiving the report of the committee appointed to confer with Mr. Peabody in respect to a better service between this city and the Sound.

Off the Track.—The 2 o'clock Sidney train came to grief yesterday afternoon near the Royal Oak, the passenger coach leaving the track, owing to a spread rail. No damage except the splintering of a few ties resulted, but it took all afternoon to get the car back on the line. The passengers were transferred to a flat car and continued the journey.

Recommendation Adopted.—It has been unofficially announced from Ottawa that the government has adopted the recommendation of Dr. M. Montzambert, who recently visited this city, in respect to the inspection of steamers. It is said that hereafter the Sound steamers will not have to be examined, but that the San Francisco liners will still have to submit to it.

Allen-Young.—At Skagway on Thursday of last week, Mr. W. A. Allen, chief clerk in the offices of the White Pass & Yukon railway at that city, and Miss Mamie Young, daughter of Mrs. J. C. Young of No. 5 Hill street in this city, were united in marriage by Rev. G. S. Clivinger. Both young people are well known in Victoria.

Re-Opening Tonight.—The Centennial Methodist Sunday school, which has been extensively altered and repaired, will be re-opened tonight. The event will be marked by one of these entertainments for which the congregation of that church are noted. There will be a programme of vocal and instrumental music, and addresses, and refreshments will be served.

Voters' League Meetings.—The committee of the Voters' League appointed to promote the settlement of the agricultural land of the province will hold a conference with the Agricultural committee of the Board of Trade at the City hall this evening at 8 p. m. At the same time the committee of the league who have the promotion of the Cowichan Valley railway in hand, will meet at the same place.

Borne to the Grave.—Messrs. E. F. Gaiser, S. A. Bantley, J. C. Darling, H. McKenzie, P. Campbell and C. Landry were the pallbearers at the funeral of the late Miss M. McCabe who died at her place from her late residence 97 View street at 9:30 yesterday morning, and later from St. Andrew's R. C. cathedral. The remains were interred at Ross Bay cemetery where, Rev. Father Althoff officiating, Rev. Father Kennedy officiated at the church.

Presentation of Decoration.—Owing to the fact that the Drill hall is in the hands of the painters and carpenters, Lt.-Col. Holmes, district officer commanding, has been unable as yet to arrange the public presentation of the service decoration recently awarded to Lt.-Col. Wolfenden, R. L., formerly commandant of the old British Columbia Brigade Garrison Artillery, now the Fifth Regiment, the ceremony as the Drill hall is in proper shape arrangements for the public presentation will be made.

Remain in Africa.—Writing from Pretoria, Corporal Mackenzie of the late Canadian contingent, says: "There are four of us here now—G. T. Devereux, Troopers John O. Watt and myself. Of these it is quite likely that Devereux will return shortly, as he is recovering from the best. John has become infatuated with the land scheme, and is awaiting word to move on to his piece. Watt and I will be content to stay for another term, as we have both joined the South African Constabulary. Watt is good stuff, hardy and capable of standing all sorts of hardships, of which there are plenty at present."

School of Instruction.—About the middle of October a School of Instruction will be established in the Fifth Regiment for men who desire to go on to the direction of the commanding officer, Lt.-Col. Munro. The instructors will be Sgt.-Major Mulcahy and the men who will deliver lectures on the various subjects of the course. Lectures will be given during the course on the depression, range finder, gunnery, artillery and ammunition. An examination of the course will be held on the coast defence, new infantry drill, elementary, review, and so on. The school will be held at the Drill hall, and will be held for a period of six weeks.

W. C. T. U. MEETINGS.

Gatherings at Which Mrs. Rutherford, Dominion President, Speaks.

A most delightful gathering was held at the residence of Mrs. Grant yesterday afternoon, when the W. C. T. U. met with the Dominion president, Mrs. Rutherford of Toronto. The parlors of the residence were tastefully decorated with white flowers, and the W. C. T. U. and filled to overflowing with interested, wide-awake W. C. T. U. women and their friends.

Mrs. Grant, chairwoman of the Central Union, occupied the chair. "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name" was sung heartily, and after Scripture reading and prayers, Mrs. Rutherford addressed the meeting.

For fully an hour the president listened with closest attention, as the heart of the Dominion W. C. T. U. spoke to them of the work in which they were engaged, and to which they were giving their best thought and time, in order that the larger home, the world, may be a better one for their sons and daughters to live in as they go out into it. Mrs. Rutherford referred to the conditions of the world, the different provinces. The Red Letter Days of the Dominion W. C. T. U.—"The day of prayer," "World's Missionary day," and "Crusade Day"—which commemorate the birthdays of Frances B. Willard, Mrs. Younan's—the W. C. T. U. Deborah of Canada—and the anniversary of Miss Willard's "going home" of the official organ of the Dominion W. C. T. U., "The Power of Jesus Name" and of the probability of the Dominion convention meeting in British Columbia in the near future.

At the close of Mrs. Rutherford's address, the meeting resolved itself into a social gathering, and the members of the unions in Victoria, many of whom have been identified with the work since their organization 35 years ago, had the privilege of meeting their Dominion president personally. A large number of subscribers to the "Woman's Journal" were secured, after which the meeting adjourned, the Temperance Doxology being sung.

This afternoon at the school room of the Metropolitan church Mrs. Rutherford will address a meeting of the school children, to which it is hoped a large number will be present.

MIR. MORGAN'S RETURN.

Uncrowned King of the United States Arrives Home.

The Montreal Witness takes fun at the Yankee worship of Mr. Morgan, and in the United States papers at his return from Europe last week. Says the Witness:

A very prominent event of the financial week has been the return to the shores of the United States of that great and wonderful man, Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan. So great is he considered in that home of the free and equal that even the reporters who are supposed to be down on their knees and "kow tow" before him, and who speak of him in their voices as hushed and their pencils tremble in their hands as they try to record the reverential manner in which his lackey tied his shoe strings. We are told that "he was not treated like an ordinary passenger, even by the United States government." Even the next-to-the-best customs officer who would have no respect for a Tennyson or an Emerson, did not examine and wreck his luggage in the eye of the public, but he went respectfully to Mr. Morgan's own cabin and there took his declarations as to the dutiable goods he brought with him. The reporters know what the public of the United States wants to read, no doubt. Assuming that, such todayism and snobishness and the worshiping of false gods was surely never so famously shown before. Let us give Mr. Morgan the credit for his healthy disgust of the whole business, and let the United States press and people no longer wonder that their successful man might be entitled "Mr. Morgan and the photographers" and which the late Oliver Wendell Holmes would have delighted to deal with in the style of "it's very hard to lose your purse, but harder to be shot." Mr. Morgan, who counts only in six figures, said that he would prefer losing five million dollars to being shot in this way. So persistent were the photographers that Mr. Morgan raised his cane and was either about to strike the photographer or break his camera. "Did he make a photograph?" asked Mr. Morgan, referring to one of the funds, his face flushing with anger and with uplifted cane. And Mr. Bier, his secretary, replied, whether humorously or with arriere pensee, is not said, "In the negative." But supposing a roystering had threatened to strike a photographer in the land of the star-strangled banner, or anywhere else, for that matter, and supposing British people to royalty that New York has to Mr. Morgan what shafts of satire would have been aimed at us, what pretence of pity would have been laded out? The next thing we shall expect to hear is that the great trust organizer has gone to live in England along with Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Astor and Mr. Yerkes, where he can walk about and say, with Mr. Croker, "Here nobody cares a hang about me."
